Response to reviewers

We took every suggestion made by both the reviewers. See below:

We included better descriptions and explanations of statistical methods, and the inclusion of citations of recent work that uses Minecraft and other tools for virtual experiences specific to the geological sciences.

We also added a better description of how the exercise(s) were conducted, better descriptions of the assessment approaches, and some text on the relevance of these activities to disability access and inclusion.